GSD 114

I note that I have a couple of page 3's.

Seems to me that the thing missing here is a definition of what we expect as a result of their study. I think our primary interest here is in the feasibility of doing some of the jobs that are enumerated in the paper, particularly the research and development work that might be required in order to make these things feasible. I may have overlooked something in the paper, but I get the impression in scanning it, might very well be trying to design the system.
